What's happening during the Autumn construction blitz

Timed to coincide with the April holiday period, construction works will continue across the metropolitan and regional train networks to build the Metro Tunnel, remove dangerous level crossings and upgrade regional lines.

The Metro Tunnel will untangle the City Loop, and means more trains, more often for people travelling to and from the suburbs. Room will be created on the Cranbourne, Frankston and Pakenham lines for an additional 157,000 peak passengers to travel by train every week, saving up to 50 minutes a day when the Metro Tunnel is built.

- Major works continue across south eastern rail lines to upgrade infrastructure and build the Metro Tunnel entrance at South Yarra, so more trains can run more often across Melbourne
- On the Mernda and Frankston lines, works continue to remove the level crossings at Reservoir and Carrum
- Major track, signal and platform upgrades will also deliver more reliable trains on the Geelong and Warrnambool lines

Thanks for your patience while we improve the transport network.

Plan ahead to avoid long delays

March and April 2019

Plan ahead to avoid long delays

Melbourne and Victoria are growing fast. We're building the Metro Tunnel and improving the public transport network so we can run more trains, more often. This will involve disruption to your journey so we'd like to help you plan ahead to avoid long delays.

Here are some tips:

- If you can, avoid peak times and travel before 7am or after 9am.
- Take advantage of the Early Bird fare. Touch on and off before 7.15am and your train travel is free.
- We expect other public transport services and roads to be busier than usual. Plan ahead and allow extra time.

AFL fans should allow extra time to get to the MCG in April, with a number of train lines not running to Richmond Station. The free tram zone will be extended to the MCG for affected games.

Plan ahead and allow more time if you're attending a show at the Melbourne International Comedy Festival.

There will be no trains between the City and Caulfield on these dates. Caulfield is the major bus interchange and will be extremely busy in peak periods.
